EPSO competition for Maltese lawyer linguists

The European Personnel Selection Office (EPSO) will be organising in 2018 a competition for lawyer linguists having Maltese as their main language, with the aim of establishing a reserve list of candidates for recruitment as lawyer linguists with the Court of Justice of the European Union.

The role of a lawyer linguist consists of the translation, in Maltese, of documents of a legal and technical nature of the Court of Justice. For this reason, only those candidates in possession of a university degree in law that allows the practice of one of the legal professions (lawyer, notary or legal procurator) are eligible to apply.

The career of lawyer linguist is an opportunity for those wishing to work with one of the most important and prestigious institutions of the European Union, with prospects of a stable and enriching career under every aspect.

More details on the role and functions of a lawyer linguist can be found at this address: http://curia.europa.eu/jcms/jcms/Jo2_10742/direction-generale-de-la-traduction .

Lawyer linguists are required to possess a very good knowledge of Maltese, as well as two other official European Union language, one of which must be French. The complete list of requirements for admission to the competition will be available in the notice of competition itself.

The date of publication of the note will be the 7 December 2017. Any person interested should therefore follow both the publications of the Official journal of the EU, as well as developments related to this competition through the EPSO website (http://europa.eu/epso/index_en.htm).
